BIRMINGHAM CITY University

With over 31,000 students from around 100 countries, Birmingham City University is a large, diverse and increasingly popular place to study. We put students at the heart of everything we do, giving them the best opportunities for future success.

The University has an enviable reputation for providing quality, student-focused education in a professional and friendly environment. Our superb courses, state-of-the-art facilities, first-rate staff, and focus on practical skills and professional relevance produce some of the country's most employable graduates.

Business at Birmingham City University

Birmingham City University offers over 40 highly innovative undergraduate and postgraduate business courses that are tailored to students and industrial needs and wants.

Birmingham City University's business courses are led by a team of around 100 full-time academic staff but their academic skills are just part of who they are. Amongst them, they have worked in senior positions in companies such as, Tesco Stores Limited, The Prince's Trust, Midland Heart Ltd, Hong Kong University, Barclays Bank, Land Rover, H&M and BT to name a few.

We also have two specialist centres, both of which work closely with businesses to offer innovative research, consultancy services, training and the chance to employ our students. Everything that these centres teach, research or discover also feeds back in our courses, so that students across the University benefit from their great expertise and close links with businesses.

Delivery Pattern of Each Module

Module Description

1 Cross Cultural Consumer Behavior

This module will equip you with the knowledge, understanding and cultural awareness necessary to engage with the diversity of consumer values and behaviour in contemporary markets, resulting in you becoming an effective global citizen. You will be applying and evaluating consumer behaviour theories and models in a cross-cultural context to develop and justify persuasive marketing solutions for businesses dealing with a culturally diverse consumer base.

2 Contemporary Advertising

This module significantly contributes to the course philosophy providing the opportunity for you to expand your strategic marketing and marketing communications knowledge and skills at the required professional level for the business and contemporary advertising sector. It develops further the knowledge and skills used in the advertising industry, on both the agency and client-side, such as media agency account managers, marketing communications managers, and internal communication assistants.

3 Marketing Strategy and Leadership

Marketing is usually involved in providing information used in strategic decision-making and is often in the forefront of executing such decisions. It is very important for marketers to have an understanding of strategy and planning as it enables marketing activities to be directed to the specific needs of that organisation. This module will ensure that you appreciate the complexities of preparing, implementing and managing longer-term, customer focused plans, and the significant role marketing has in contributing to the core vision of an organisation.

4 One Planet Business

Whilst Marketing has contributed to the problem of over-consumption, this module aims to provide you with an understanding of the role that marketing has to play in meeting the needs of the sustainability agenda. It identifies the nature and extent of the challenges facing organisations and considers potential approaches for addressing these. In doing so, it aspires to create a vision of the future in which organisations, consumers and government can realise a one planet business strategy.

5 International Business

The module introduces the main issues of international business. It explores the cultural, administrative, geographical and economic differences around the world and how these shape businesses. The module addresses three fundamental issues: (i) the differences among domestic, international and global firms; (ii) the attributes of multinational corporations (MNCs); and (iii) the determinants of success in international business. It also discusses industry, resource and institution based views to understand the operational and strategic complexities of international markets.

6 Digital Analytics for Marketing

This module aims to equip you with the conceptual knowledge needed to develop your understanding of Digital Analytics for Marketing. It explores Marketing Analytics as it pertains to Digital Marketing campaigns, highlighting the differences between traditional and Digital Marketing analytics at a strategic level. You will also acquire the ability to develop and apply Digital Marketing techniques. In addition, you will develop various key skills, such as effective communication and strategy development.

Assessment Methods

Students' performance will be assessed by coursework and assessments (e.g. presentations) set in accordance with the modular learning objectives and desired learning outcomes.

Programme Management

The programme is managed by a professional team that provides students with full administrative support.

A dedicated programme manager will provide assistance via email, telephone and in person, with a wide range of services including seminar arrangement, study materials management, study notes collection, study group formation, Kaplan library membership application and assessment management.

Learning Outcome

The specialist marketing modules will give you the opportunity to strengthen and prepare you to move towards a career in the marketing industry. The curriculum is up-to-date and covers different marketing-related topics and skills that are required for the commercial world nowadays, for instance, Contemporary Advertising , an understanding of marketing strategy and planning, and digital analytics.

You will be able to understand how to identify and assess markets, develop marketing plans, analyze consumer behavior and develop communication strategies. Additionally, you will also gain the ability to analyze the complexities of international markets and inform your decision-making. This programme is designed to equip you with the skills and knowledge needed to thrive in the modern marketing landscape.

- ✓ Provide you with the foundational knowledge needed to gain a deeper understanding of Digital Analytics for Marketing
